

Killerton - June 2023

A couple of updates following my last missive.

We've been in touch with Robert Meakings at Killerton. You may recall that as well as playing for Broadclyst CC he is also Collections and House Officer at Killerton. Now that Denise has retired he is our main point of contact at the House. Robert has kindly offered to open the House early at 10:30 on Sunday 2nd July to enable us to have a slightly more relaxed tour before the adrenaline rush of the cricket match.

Cricket

On the subject of the cricket match, JB has been in touch and is still desirous of hearing from people who would like to be included in the Killerton Squad.

Don't forget:

2:00pm Sunday 2nd July
Killerton Cricket Ground.

Last year's team was strengthened by a number of associate members so competition for places could be hard fought this year

Please let JB know asap if you are interested in playing:

It would be handy to know if you (and your partner/family/friends) are intending to come along in July, either to the House in the morning and/or the match in the afternoon, just so that we can give our respective hosts a guide for their arrangements. 50th anniversary Tankard

To celebrate the 50th anniversary of the 1973 starters, and indeed, the exit of the 1970 starters, Adrian has investigated having some beer tankards produced with a Killerton logo engraved on them

Approximate price is £11-£12 depending on the number.

Please contact Adrian asap if interested:

One update Keith Sharkey has managed to retire at last, He and Sue are enjoying their life in Nottingham having sold off their travel business last year.

Look forward to hearing any news from others that I can share, and even more, anticipating another brilliant cricketing weekend in just a few weeks time.

Best wishes.
